Jennifer,

We met last month at the ITAC briefing when I gave an overview of the TPP negotiations. I wanted to follow up with you on the supply chain issues you had mentioned that were relevant to your industry. Michelle Carrillo has the lead on the supply chain work for the negotiations. It sounded like you had some good ideas, so I was wondering if you wanted to have a quick call so I could introduce you to Michelle and give you an update on where we are and the kind of info we are looking for.

Of course. I have not met Probir and assume you mean Stan McCoy. Since I leave for Brazil on April 12 (not til 10pm), I'd really prefer to talk with you; can you work me in for 30 min on the 11 or 12?

This is a very important issue for our industry - they see KORUS and wish for more - but I don't want to make your job any more difficult than I know it must be.

I will try to talk with Stan but hope we can also meet. (b)(3) (b)(4) & (b)(5)

Probir,

Apologies for the delay in getting the attached memo to you that we discussed in our meeting. It has been a very busy time and we couldn't draft it until the end of last week.

I'm copying David Simon, our Associate General Counsel for Intellectual Property, as he has a wealth of knowledge on (b)(3) & (b)(5) valuable resource to you. I also had dinner with Stan McCoy at the annual ECAT event and raised (b)(3) & (b)(5) him, so am copying him as well.

Please let David or me know if you have any questions or if we can provide further support for our recommendation. Thanks for your time on this important matter to Intel and many other companies.

Information Regarding the 13th Round of the Trans Pacific Partnership Negotiations Taking Place in San Diego, California, from July 2 -10, 2012.

Details regarding the 13th Round of the Trans Pacific Partnership negotiations, to be held in San Diego, California from July 2-10, have been released. USTR will be hosting a Direct Stakeholder Engagement event on Monday, July 2, 2012. This event will provide stakeholders the opportunity to speak directly and one -on-one with negotiators, raise questions, and share their views following the same format used in Dallas for the previous round of negotiations.

USTR will also accommodate requests for stakeholders to make presentations to negotiators, and, in addition, there will be a stakeholder briefing on Tuesday morning, July 3, 2012, at 10 a.m.

The Direct Stakeholder Engagement will take place on Monday, July 2, 2012, at the Hilton San Diego Bayfront from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. The registration deadline is June 15, 2012. USTR will be unable to accommodate any registrations received after 5 p.m. EST on June 15, 2012.

Those interested can visit this link to register for the Stakeholder Engagement event with USTR. If you have registration questions please email EPisanelli@ustr.eop.gov.

Ralph,

I'd be happy to set a time with you to discuss the current status of the Medical Device Annex and our preparations for the San Diego meetings.

Please provide me with a couple available times and we'll go from there.

U.S. BUSINESS COALITION FOR TPP

Information Regarding the 13th Round of the Trans Pacific Partnership Negotiations Taking Place in San Diego, California, from July 2-10, 2012.

Details regarding the 13th Round of the Trans Pacific Partnership negotiations, to be held in San Diego, California from July 2-10, have been released. USTR will be hosting a Direct Stakeholder Engagement event on Monday, July 2, 2012. This event will provide stakeholders the opportunity to speak directly and one-on-one with negotiators, raise questions, and share their views following the same format used in Dallas for the previous round of negotiations.

USTR will also accommodate requests for stakeholders to make presentations to negotiators, and, in addition, there will be a stakeholder briefing on Tuesday morning, July 3, 2012, at 10 a.m.

The Direct Stakeholder Engagement will take place on Monday, July 2, 2012, at the Hilton San Diego Bayfront from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. The registration deadline is June 15, 2012. USTR will be unable to accommodate any registrations received after 5 p.m. EST on June 15, 2012.

Those interested can visit this link to register <<http://events.constantcontact.com/register/event?llr=6lcilzcab&oeidk=a07e5yh3yt0c168d0a9>> for the Stakeholder Engagement event with USTR. If you have registration questions please email EPISanelli@ustr.eop.gov.

Additional information can be found on the USTR website <<http://www.ustr.gov/trade-agreements/free-trade-agreements/trans-pacific-partnership/direct-stakeholder-engagement>> .

Thanks Tanuja. I might be able to make it down to Alexandria, depending upon whether Probir and I will be meeting in the office that morning to finish off some work. Right now, it's looking like he and I may have to get together here. One other option would be to meet half-way, i.e., at the airport, at 11:00 or even a bit later. (My flight is not until 1:40 pm). Hi Tanuja,

Excellent. I will be here on Monday morning, but then take off for the TPP negotiations. I have to be at National airport by 11:30 am or so. I could call you on the 9th from Dallas, since you'll presumably be freeing up from your meeting with Stan during our lunch break. Otherwise, we might meet up in person on Monday morning, if that is preferable.

I understand that negotiation of the sectors may be on a slow track. However, please let us know if you would like to discuss or need anything in advance of the next round.

Given Barbara's request that industry not keep repeating themselves, we have no plans to participate in the next round. We would change those plans if you think it would be helpful.

Tim –

As you recall, we tabled our TPP SOE proposal last October with a place holder for “adverse effects” language that would be provided at a later date. We intend to post the new interagency agreed text tomorrow. If you, Nucor and/or others would like to do a briefing on the language, I’d be happy to try to arrange it.

We are on a very tight timeline and need to get this out to negotiating partners as soon as possible in order to keep the momentum in the SOE negotiations.

Best,
Daniel

I am back in the office today after meetings around the country and am looking at the attachments to the email which you have forwarded. What is the context for these documents? Are these the documents Jared is relying on to understand the Australian regulatory system? They are somewhat out of date – not completely but there are some changes. The current guide published by the TGA (and developed with industry) is at the following link.

Anne,

Phil and I had a good meeting with the USTR team. Jared is doing pricing issues. Jared asked us to compare the US - KORUS provisions with the US -Australia FTA (assuming devices had been added to drugs); I'll send you that analysis.

A new negotiator is doing the regulatory sections -- Julia Dougherty. (Jeff Weiss left USTR.) Unfortunately, Julia is starting from almost no understanding of medical devices. Phil plans to send her some info.

Also unfortunately, both will be looking for compromises, despite the fact neither could identify substantive objections raised by any other TPP participant (including Australia and New Zealand).

More later.

Best regards,
Ralph

Dear Barbara and Wendy,

As I mentioned before, the Diet (DPJ) is very interested in a discussion of the TPP – broader than just our industry. We will have about 2 hours with probably around 20 members (including one possible next PM – realizing that may not mean much...and the chair of their Foreign Affairs Committee). The date is March 16.

Phil and I would welcome your guidance on the type of presentation we should give. Should we arrange a meeting, say by the end of February?

Japan Wins Support From 4 Nations To Join Pacific Trade Talks

TOKYO (Nikkei)--Japan has so far secured the consent of Brunei, Vietnam, Peru and Chile to join negotiations for the Trans-Pacific Partnership free trade agreement, making strides in its effort to win approval from all nine partner nations, The Nikkei has learned.

In Japan's attempt to convince the remaining five nations, receiving a nod from the biggest partner, the U.S., is expected to be the toughest challenge.

Negotiating teams of officials from the economy, foreign affairs, agricultural and other ministries visited Peru on Tuesday and Chile on Wednesday. Both nations basically welcomed Japan's participation in the talks.

Earlier, negotiators visited Vietnam on Jan. 17 and Brunei two days later to win support.

Japan will hold advance consultations with Singapore and Malaysia next month. In February or March it will begin such talks with agricultural powerhouses Australia and New Zealand, which are both likely to pressure Japan to open its agriculture market further.

The final and biggest hurdle will be the U.S., since the White House needs to receive Congress' go-ahead before launching trade talks with other nations.

Japan and the U.S. are expected to kick off advance consultations next month, with the focus to be on Japan opening its auto and agricultural markets. It is expected to take around three months for Congress to grant approval after the administration signals its intent to enter trade talks with Japan. If the White House notifies Congress at the end of March or in April, Japan could actually join the TPP negotiating table in June or July.

Along with negotiating with partner nations, Prime Minister Yoshihiko Noda still needs to face internal opposition within the ruling Democratic Party of Japan. He has managed to cajole former Farm Minister Masahiko Yamada and other naysayers so far by claiming that "a final decision has not been made." He will eventually have to confront them in order to make an official announcement.

Government officials consider Noda's likely visit to the U.S. in April a critical point in the process.

"It would be perfect if the prime minister explains the decision to join the TPP and President Barack Obama heralds the move," says a METI official.

Pursuant to our meetings on trade secrets in late 2011 and the interagency's feedback on our proposal, please find attached a revised text for your consideration. The Chamber and its members are highly committed to finding new ways (via the TPP and other vehicles) to address the challenges associated with forced disclosure of trade secrets. We look forward to meeting soon to discuss the revised text.

Enjoy the long weekend.

Kan pushes opening of Japan at Davos, calls for FTA with EU Sunday 30th January, 08:42 AM JST DAVOS, Switzerland —

Prime Minister Naoto Kan on Saturday called for the launch of free trade talks with the European Union this year in an address at one of the world's most influential economic gatherings in the Swiss resort of Davos.

Kan's speech at the annual meeting of the World Economic Forum focused on two themes —the opening up of Japan and the importance of reinforcing social bonds.

Kan explained his belief that accelerating the drive for further opening Japan's doors to the rest of the world will serve as a catalyst to overcome its long economic stagnation and social unease.

But he said, "At the same time, forging new connections between individuals is needed so that the opening of the nation will not bring about rupture among people."

He said that 2011 will be what he termed the "third opening of Japan," following one about 150 years ago when it started to modernize by adopting Western ideas and another after World War II when it followed the path of democracy and a free economy.

In pursuing this goal, Kan said it is imperative for Japan to forge free trade agreements with more countries.

"We also very much look forward to beginning negotiations this year with the EU," Kan said.

He also told the audience of business leaders and policymakers that Japan will decide whether to join talks for a U.S.-backed regional free trade agreement known as the Trans-Pacific Partnership by around June.

At home, there are concerns over an expected huge influx of cheaper agricultural products if Japan advances trade liberalization.

But Kan reiterated his position that the promotion of free trade and making the country's agriculture more internationally competitive could go hand in hand, especially given that Japanese food is starting to be recognized in other countries as delicious and safe.

He introduced one of his mottos that the role of politics is to aim for "a society with the least unhappiness."

"Happiness and prosperity are to be pursued by free individuals based on their own values and ideals," he said.
"Politics, which is among other things an exercise of authority, should not intervene in this process."

Instead, he said the main role of politics must be to implement steps to help eradicate the causes of misfortune and disparities in society.

To maintain or create new social bonds, Kan said he has placed "employment at the center of Japan's national policies not only from an economic but also from a social aspect" since he has been in office since last June.

The five-day meeting began Wednesday with the participation of political, business and academic leaders from all over the world.

Kan is scheduled to return to Tokyo on Sunday afternoon.

Hi Dr. Gunn,

Thank you for reaching out. The TEAM initiative reflects the overall TPP proposals/approach but it is a forward-looking, internal US government initiative, not actual TPP text. Attached is the White Paper we released that explains the initiative in more detail, and the accompanying press release is on the website here: <http://www.ustr.gov/about-us/press-office/blog/2011/september/trade-enhancing-access-medicines>.

I'd be happy to discuss it with both of you in more detail. I've also cc'ed our TPP leads if you have additional TPP-specific questions. My contact info is below, please feel free to call. Best regards,

Elizabeth

I am First Vice Chair of ITAC3. I had heard a proposal, put forward in TPP negotiations in Chicago, with the above title. Sushan mentioned it in ITAC3 today.

I've consulted with Ralph Ives, EVP and Head of Intl and co -member of ITAC3. Neither he or I have seen this proposal.

Can you shed any light on actual text, context, etc?

Thanks, Trevor
