That's actually a Sauwastika/manji (卐), the Buddhist symbol for peace. Swastikas (卐) are the other way around. I know this because, as an atheist, I feel that it's necessary to read up on religion more than the average person of faith.

This is literally Atheism. In order to understand religion, you must learn about it so you can point out many of its obvious flaws. This guy is so enlightened by his intelligence.

According to my vast anime collection, buddism is actually the ultimate form of atheism. /tip my fedora to you.

I don't know, man. This type of comment doesn't really seem appropriate for this venue. It's rude, crude, ill timed, unprofessional, and it doesn't really add to the conversation.

These kinds of personal attacks are really unnecessary, and it just kind of boggles my mind when people resort to these kinds of tactics, in this or any other subreddit.

From what I can remember, reddit used to be a site dedicated to sharing ideas for the benefit of all parties involved, without fear of reprisal from trolls or the uninformed, etc. Not implying that you are one of these, but just saying.

I think what needs to happen is that we need to go back and simplify things a bit, take out all of the garbage and remove or block users who are just going to post nonsense and try to infuriate others by posting hateful comments.

Fuck I must be getting old. Thinking back to a time when people on reddit and the internet in general used to be decent to eachother.

Haha I guess times change though and there is no way around it, but still that is no excuse to insult somebody without even attempting to try to see things from their point of view.

However, I do applaud you for your audacity and tenacity at attempting to call out something that you don't agree with. If the world had more people like you then we might have a better future to look forward to.

Man, sometimes I just look up into the sky and marvel at the wondrous things that the universe has provided for us, the sights, the sounds, the experiences, the people who we can agree or disagree with. Truly a magical experience, to be alive. :)

you must be a fundie, the universe hasn't provided anything for us, it's just probability, you theist. and being alive isn't a magical experience. there's no such thing as magic. if you believe in magic you probably believe in god and you probably voted for mitt romney. there's no magic to life you dumbass, we're just chemicals. jesus fucking christ you commie christian.

tl;dr you need to take the pope's dick out of your mouth and try LOGIC for once
